III (8 pts – each answer is awarded two points)

Possible answers:

- 1.It has been shown that there is a correlation between the time spent watching TV and falling educational standards. Children and teenagers who spend a lot of time watching TV can suffer from insomnia, attention deficit disorders and learning difficulties, which can have an influence on their school performance.
- 2.Playing video games can improve our speed of reaction and our spatial awareness, it boosts our problem-solving skills, and it helps people see things more quickly, assimilate more data, and multitask more successfully.
- 3.Using the Internet keeps people mentally young because surfing the net helps stimulate the parts of the brain that control making decisions and complex reasoning.
- 4.The thumb tribe refers to a generation of digital natives who use mobile phones all the time, which has caused them to have stronger, more dexterous thumbs which they use to ring door bells or to point.
